HOMESPUN SENSE

Pithy Quotations from Public Addresses of MELVIN A. TRAYLOR

President, First National Bank, Chicago

"It is time some leadership and some party called our attention to the fact there is no magic cure for the ills and the evils of human folly. We tried the primrose path of extravagance, of thoughtless and of almost criminal neglect of every sound principle of human conduct, from the individual to the government, and the individual was aided, encouraged, and abetted on that path by the government and those responsible for its administration."

"One of the biggest things was a watered state of mind in which we all thought we were richer than we were, and were living beyond our means."

"In my opinion, no great division of human society has ever been lied to, and lied about, as much in the same short period of time as has the American farmer."

"This then is my hope for our future —that we may be rich without forgetting to be righteous; that we may be powerful without being offensively proud; that we may be nationally minded without being narrow-minded; and, finally, that we may live in a world of fact without surrendering our faith."

"I would urge consideration of the complete abolishment of so-called floor trading, which, as I am informed, has about it most of the characteristics of plain crap shooting, and few, if any, more redeeming features than that delightful Ethiopian pastime."

"It is bad enough when the intelligent and wealthy speculate and lose, but when scrubwomen, day laborers, small home owners, wives and youths speculate and lose, simply because they can go to a broker's office and get credit for small sums, the practice ceases to be defensible on any ground."

"Out of the stress and difficulty of the situation I believe gradually we shall return to simpler thinking and simpler living. For it seems to me that we want above everything to abandon the struggle to live up with the Joneses, and to rediscover the true purpose of life, which is the joy to be found in the simple virtues of industry, thrift and sane living. I believe in our people, in our country, and in the God who directs our destinies; and I welcome the future with confidence and unshaken faith."

"We have not failed because of ignorance of economic theories, but because of our utter disregard and defiance of all economic laws. Ambition, stupidity, and greed have dictated policies, and trouble has been the result."

"All through history . . . the nations that have been agricultural and have included in their agricultural and domestic economy the breeding and raising of livestock have been the nations that have endured the longest and performed the greatest work for mankind."

* * *

"Open the door of an agricultural school and you close the door of a poorhouse."

"Relief from owing too much money does not lie in borrowing more."

"Human welfare, I believe, means more than the mere assurance to the individual of political rights—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—as enunciated in the Declaration of Independence; it means also the opportunity to exercise these inalienable rights."

"Knowledge is one thing, but courage of leadership is another."

"Falsehood and error make the headlines, while truth and fact are lost in the maze of half-point type."

"What does freckle-faced Johnny, snub-nosed Bill or red-headed Jim care about composition, translation or conjugation? The only cube root life will ever give them a chance to extract will probably be that of a hickory or sassafras sprout; the only unknown quantity they will ever seek to find will be the measure of the nubbins they can produce on the worn-out fields their fathers have robbed before them; the only conjugation they will ever undertake will sound something like 'We Work,' 'You Work,' 'They Work'."

"We cannot trade the hungry, the unfed, the feeble voice of the sick, the empty basket of the unemployed, against the maintenance of party preference or individual advantage or personal achievement."

"I believe I am a better farmer by a long shot than I am a banker."

* * *

"We must either all thrive together or all suffer disaster."

Many Kinds of Beans

If you lived in New England, not so long ago, your family wasn't considered quite respectable unless every Saturday night baked beans and brown bread appeared on the table. Whether you added molasses to your baked beans or whether you didn't, depended on whether you belong to this clan or to that clan. But, anyway, your beans were baked to four times their original size and served with squares of properly scored pork, crisp without and pinkly tender within.

A Big Bean Family

The Frenchman takes his haricots almost as seriously, and the Spaniard has even been known to become poetic about his pintos and frijoles. Strange names they are to us, who are familiar with navy beans, pea beans, green beans, wax beans, limas and lentils—but they are all in the good old bean family.

"The Economical Bean" is the title of a Market Basket bulletin, recently issued by the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, emphasizing the fact that beans are concentrated food. It states:

"Beans are plentiful even in years of drought, easy to preserve, easy to ship, easy to store; and when cooked they swell to a quantity two or three times their bulk. To use beans economically, the housewife must keep in mind two things. Beans require a long time to cook, and after cooking they will spoil unless kept cool and used fairly soon. With careful treatment, however, she can cook enough beans for three meals at one time and serve them in different ways."

The "three for a quarter" sales of canned beans which are being featured in many stores now, make them also economical, especially so when one stops to consider the cost of fuel in the long process of cooking dried beans, and the fact that there is no spoilage risk in canned beans."

The silence of lonely rain, pelting windows as if thrown by an unseen hand, envelops me, this typewriter, the office, and for all I know everything. And in this silence I sit me down to do a column. A column recently promoted to the front page of this journal. Selah.

Which leads to a question of the circulation of Bibles and after delving into files Father Darkleaf finds that in 1931 the American Bible Society issued 9,745,356 volumes of the Scriptures. Over 1,000,000 of these went to Japan! Since 1816 this society has distributed 237,979,404 Bibles . . . quite a large seller.

Total Sales For Tobacco Season Are Announced

Marked by Low Quality Tobacco and Large Production

Total producers' sales of tobacco for the 1931-32 season amounted to 107,467,105 pounds valued at $7,123,168 or an average price of $6.63 per hundred pounds, compared with 131,966,923 pounds valued at $11,359,000 or an average of $8.61 during the 1930-31 season, according to the final report of the Commissioner of Agriculture. Sales during the past season were the smallest since 1921 when approximately 96,500,000 pounds were sold.

Flue-cured sales amounted to 59,652,779 pounds at an average price of $7.03 per hundred, compared with 96,315,754 pounds sold the previous season at an average of $7.94.

Total producegs' sales of fire-cured tobacco amounted to 26,-990,611 pounds at an average price of $4.94 per hundred, which compares with the previous season's sales of 23,324,643 pounds at an average price of $8.26 per hundred. The fire-cured sales during the past season were the largest since the season of 1926-27 when 43,761,225 pounds were sold. Lynchburg with sales of 8,110,840 pounds led all fire-cured markets and Farmville was second with 7,263,250 pounds.

The quality of the 1931 crop was much poorer than usual, as a result of damage from the heavy rains in August and from insects. Considerable quantities of low grade tobacco, variously estimated at from 5 to 10 per cent of the total production, were not brought to market because of the low prices offered for such grades. Warehousemen estimated that the season's sales graded 14 per cent good; 34 per cent medium, and 52.8 per cent common, compared with the 1930-31 sales of 10 per cent good; 26 per cent medium; and 64 per cent common.

Court Hears Scruggs Case

Commonwealth vs. Scruggs Heads Today's Docket At Court

BUCKINGHAM, May 11.—Circuit court in session here has before it a number of criminal charges to hear among which is the case of Commonwealth vs. Wilkes Scruggs, charged with causing the death of Richard Davidson, who was struck by an automobile last December on the highway, 3 miles west of here. This case is set for today, and Col. Aubrey E. Strode, of Lynchburg is here as counsel for Scruggs, who has been out on bail.

The case vs. Chapman Oliver, who was given 2 years in the penitentiary by a jury on a charge of having attempted to break into the jail in an effort to steal confiscated whiskey stored there, will be appealed to the supreme court according to his counsel, Col. A. L. Pitt.

Among the lawyers attending court here on the opening day were Gaylor Thompson, of Farmville, Col. A. L. Pitts, of Arvonia, Col. A. E. Strode, of Lynchburg, Col. Joel Flood, of Appomattox, J. V. Lewis, of Prospect, Robert Whitehead, of Amherst, and Wyatt Abbitt Sellers, of Appomattox, and Senator S. L. Ferguson, of Appomattox.

Hurt At Bent Creek

Mr. R. H. Wood was painfully hurt last Saturday when a truck struck a trailor that he was pulling with a tractor. The truck went on the tractor and Mr. Wood either jumped or was thrown from his seat. Mr. Wells took him home where he received medical aid. The last report was that he was doing as well as could be expected. He has many friends here, who deplored the accident. No one else was hurt.

New Series Meetings For Tobacco Ass'n.

End Campaign For Sign-Up With Great Farmer Meeting At The Local Auditorium On May 21

A special statement in regard to the final drive for signed contracts by the Dark-Fired Tobacco Growers Association was issued this week by local leaders in the campaign. They announce a series of eight special meetings beginning tonight at Oakville and ending May 21 at Appomattox. Both signers and non-signers are urged to attend these meetings and learn the details of the proposed association. The special statement follows:

"We are making this last appeal to you to sign a contract and help yourself, your neighbors and your friends to get something for your tobacco. Unless a much larger sign up rium, Appomattox Courthouse can be gotten than we now have there will be no associa- will have speakers from other tion. And if this association parts of the state.

is not organized you will probably never live long enough to see another one attempted. The Federal Farm Board is back of us and will see that we are advanced 75% of the value of our tobacco for the first payment.

"The following is a list of meetings to be held in this county and the dates:

May 12, Oakville, 8 P. M.; May 13, Spout Spring, 8 P. M.; May 14, Vera, 8 P. M.; May 16, Woodland school house 8 P. M.; May 17, Bent Creek, 8 P. M.; May 18, Stonewall 8 P. THE GROWERS' QUIZZER

Question: What is the Dark-Fired Tobacco Growers Association?

Answer: It is a cooperative organization of growers, nonprofiting, for the purpose of orderly marketing.

Question: Are such associations successful?

Answer: There are now 101 such associations and even in these "hard times" there has been only one failure. Every type of grower and producer is organized: fruit-growers, milk producers, potato growers, cotton growers, etc.

Question: Who will direct the management of the association?

Answer: A board of directors composed of 11 tobacco growers elected by a majority vote of members in the 11 counties having largest acreage in dark-fired belt (This includes Appomattox and Buckingham for 1 director each) plus one director named by the extension division.

Question: Will the signers know what salaries are being paid and financial status of the association?

Answer: The contract calls for all salaries over $1,000 to be published in the books at all times to the members and for annual and semi-annual audits.

Question: What is the difference between the new and the old association?

Answer: The new association has a two year contract, the old had five. The new will handle only dark tobacco from fourteen Virginia counties, thus eliminating clumsiness of a tri-state organization. The new has a right to market tobacco anywhere, including the open floor, is flexible in its handling of tobacco has reduced overhead, fewer receiving stations, leases warehouses instead of buying them and in many ways profits by the mistakes of the old.

Question? Could I get a higher price for my tobacco if I did not sign the contract?

Answer: The association can guarantee top prices because it has the right to sell on the open floor.

Question: What will be the advance on my tobacco?

Answer: The Federal Farm Board and intermediatory banks guarantee 75% of a standard grade prices by an impartial committee. Non-signers are not entitled to this guarantee.

Question: Are Kentucky and Tennessee organized?

Answer: Both have signed up over 60% and handled part of this year's crop.

Question: What sign-up percentage is necessary for an organization?

Answer: 75% of the acreage.

Question: Why should I sign?

Answer: In order to enable the association to organize; in order to get the benefit of the association; in order to unit with my neighbors o build strength and work for a fair return on my labor.

Question: What will happen if 75% don't sign?

Answer: The Federal Farm Board will withdraw its support and leave the growers to their own fate, which will doubtless be a continuation of 1931-32 prices. It will kill all hopes for betterment.

Question: How can I join the association?

Answer: Get in touch with C. T. Moses, Appomattox, Va., or your County Agent.

To Finish Span On May 15 Is Hope

BENT CREEK, May 11—The bridge across Bent Creek will be completed by the May 15. The project of road that was left between the bridge and Vera contractor Hutchison closed his contract is being built by the convict force. The trucks are busy on Rt. 13 now, hauling gravel for the hard surface. The steam shovel is still busy on the Cassie side of the River, plowing her way through the mountainside. The Buckingham people also have the promise of a county road from Buffalo Station to Green Bay and through the Hornsley farms, near the famous 'Hornsley pond', where so many fishermen have come for many years to try their luck. The writer has been told that Buckingham county has agreed to give the road and pay for half of the bridge across Davids creek.

Supervisors Are Keeping Roads In Good Shape

Appomattox Supervisors In Regular Meeting Here Yesterday

That Appomattox supervisors are faithfully maintaining roads in their districts, despite the fact the state takes over all roads in July 1, was revealed yesterday when warrants in district road funds were issued by C. W. Smith, clerk, following the regular meeting of the supervisors here. County road forces have been unusually active this spring.

The supervisors agreed, subject to approval of the state highway department, to cooperate with Buckingham county in opening up a new road of about 4 miles from Bent Creek to Greenway. D. E. Thomas, of Greenway, appeared before the board and explained the need of this road, and a small bridge across Davids Creek. About one mile of the proposed road is in Appomattox county.

The board also voted to cooperate with the Southside Health Unit in supplying vacine for diphtheria and smallpox clinics in the county.

Caterpillars Are Pests Of 1st Order

One of the largest invasions of caterpillars in recent years has threatened fruits in this section within the past two weeks. Alert farmers have been spraying deligently in attempts to get rid of the pests.

Swarms of caterpillars have been suspended from trees, shrubs and in general dogged the trail of everything. "It took me half an hour to wash a little over 100 yards from my house to the store", declared the postmaster at Stapleton last week. "Caterpillars were massed over my path."

Heavy rains this week may aid the war on the prospective lunas, swallow-tails and orange sulphae.

Buckingham For Byrd; Co. Democrats Rally

Name Delegates to State Convention to be Held In Richmond

Buckingham Democrats at a mass meeting at the courthouse Tuesday unamiously added their delegates to the soaring "Harry Flood Byrd for president" movement and passed resolutions endorsing the former governor. The resolutions also praised the records in the last legislature of Senator S. L. Ferguson and delegate A. J. Terrell.

Twenty-four delegates to the state convention were named as follows:

H. E. Griffin, John B. Boatwright, A. J. Terrell, O. R. Jeffrey, T. B. Hall, Forest Guthrie, Jr., R. Johnson Nuckols, Miss Cate Patteson, H. F. Chappel, Jr. T. E. Patteson, John G. Trent, A. C. Snoddy.

H. E. Griffin presided at the meeting as chairman. Senator S. L. Ferguson addressed the gathering, as did delegate A. J. Terrell, L. A. Busch and others.

Delegates to the state convention will have one-third of a vote each, the county being entitled to eight votes.

The Byrd Resolutions follow:

"We, the Democrats of Buckingham county, assembled at the courthouse in mass meeting this tenth day of May, 1932, do most heartily endorse our distinguished and able statesman, Hon. Harry F. Byrd, for the Democratic nomination for president of the United States to be made by the national Democratic convention in June, 1932.

"We believe that if Mr. Byrd is nominated he will be triumphantly elected by the people in November, and that his administration of the nation's affairs will in a large measure restore confidence in government and bring a return of business prosperity. We know Mr. Byrd to be well worthy of the best traditions of the Democratic party and the equal of the famous sons of Virginia, who have filled the office of president of the president of the United States in the past.

"This meeting instructs our county delegates to the state convention at Richmond to vote for a national convention delegation from Virginia instructed to cast the state's vote for Harry Flood Byrd, and it also instructs our county delegation at the state convention in Richmond to vote as a unit on this measure."

There will be a well-baby clinic at the local courthouse Monday afternoon from 2 to 4. The clinic will be in charge of the ladies of the Baptist church.
